SECRETARY-ELECT TO STUDY LAHASKA ROAD CONTROVERSY

I. Lamont Hughes Promises To Carefully Study The Entire Problem

INTERVIEWED BY WIRE

Executive Secretary of Bucks County Ass'n Feels Greatly Encouraged Over Outcome

LAHASKA, Jan. 14.—The Secretary-elect of Highways, I. Lamont Hughes, Pittsburgh, has promised that before any action is taken in the construction of a proposed new "short-cut" highway between here and Doylestown, he will carefully study the grievances of the residents affected.

Mr. Hughes made this promise, according to Mrs. Martha Woolley, executive of the Bucks County Association, leader in the highway fight. The incoming official was contacted by telephone and discussed the matter with Mrs. Woolley.

"Mr. Hughes said he thought it foolish for him to discuss the matter until he takes the oath of office," said Mrs. Woolley, "but he said his attention had been called to the matter."

Mrs. Woolley, who says she has the assurance of hundreds of Bucks county women of their willingness to form a "human chain" to prevent the proposed construction, declared that "Mr. Hughes offered to confer with me at Harrisburg on Wednesday."

"I told him I felt, after having read his record, that the State Highway Department would be in better hands, but that I knew he had a tough job ahead of him."

"The impression I gained was that now we will at least have some consideration, which is certainly more than we've had in the past."

The road fight between residents and the State Highway Department agents started last week when surveyors appeared on farms and estates to plot a "point-to-point" highway between Doylestown and Lahaska.

Surveyors completed the survey, which, if it reaches the construction stage, will run through previously secluded properties, and according to the owners, "desecrate not only scenic beauty but historic landmarks."

Mrs. Woolley charged the proposed construction was "punishment for Bucks county Republicans."

"We wish to emphasize," she said, "that people here want modern, improved roads, but only if they are laid out with thought to natural scenic beauty, and consideration of property. There were two other surveys, both bad, but this one was the last straw."

Vincent Casey Renamed Yardley Fire Co. Pres't

YARDLEY, Jan. 14.—At the meeting of Yardley Fire Company, No. 1, Vincent P. Casey was renamed president for the coming year, with Carlton R. Leedom, vice-president; Walter H. Thompson, secretary; Fred Bebbington, treasurer; Louis C. Leedom, chief; and trustees, as follows: Horace Eisenbrey, Lewis M. Pikel, J. J. Jones, C. Leroy Hackett, James Marlin, Fred G. Satterthwaite, John Tomlinson.

Chief Leedom, reported that the company had responded to 52 fires during the past year, with 16 in Yardley borough, and 23 in Lower Makefield Township. The largest borough loss was the fire at Orange Blossom Inn, on November 1, with a loss of about $2000.

Great stress was made of the negligence in starting grass fires, which held first place, 28 out of the 52 calls being grass, with five barns, four houses, and three autos, while a credit of one each is due to: garage, a car of coke on the railroad, a fireplace, school, tar barrel, hotel, store, factory, chicken house, and electric wiring in a home. There were two chimney fire calls.

The treasurer reported that the company had been able to meet all obligations as they fell due during the year, with a large portion of the credit due to the donations of their boosters, and the annual supper held in October.

Following the election refreshments were served.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

To Walter Lefferts, of North State street, Newtown, goes the honor of being Newtown's first and only licensed airplane pilot.

Walt received his private type certificate at the Camden Airport, Monday, where pilots of the Civil Aeronautics Authority put applicants through rigid written and flight tests.

Last spring, Walt organized "The Sky Club" of Bucks County. The purpose of which was to purchase an airplane and provide inexpensive flight instruction and flying for its members. The Sky Club owns a factory rebuilt Taylor Cub that it keeps in the hangar that they erected at the Silver Star Airport, Langhorne.

Members of the Sky Club are: Walt Lefferts and Pete Chesner, Newtown; Phil Lawrence, So. Langhorne; Harold Daseberg and Wm. Schneider, Hulmeville, and Jos. Watson, Somerton.

Clerk of Orphans' Court Eleanor D. Worthington, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Bucks County Council of Republican Women, announced that the dinner-meeting scheduled for next Thursday has been postponed.

The dinner-meeting will be held some time in February, Miss Worthington said, and announcement of the date will be made later.

Not only is Doylestown to have a new, up-to-date laboratory in the new 75,000 Doylestown Community Hospital that will be opened in another week, but official word was received yesterday that the hospital has been designated as a typing station and distribution center for the State pneumonia serum.

Dr. Allen H. Moore, of Doylestown, stated this morning that he has been trying for some time to have the Doylestown hospital go designated and that the efforts put forth have proved to be successful.

This means that patrons of the Doylestown Emergency Hospital and all residents of this community are now assured of 24-hour free typing service for pneumonia patients eligible to receive the State pneumonia serum. The time element in typing and serum administration is very important and for that reason, that community is considered fortunate, for delay will be eliminated.

In order to discourage poultry thefts and pilfering of other farm products usually so prevalent at this time of the year, members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police are making special patrols at all hours of the day and night through the farming districts of Bucks County and the State. The police also investigate any suspicious appearing person or cars while on these patrols.

This system of farm protection has brought excellent results in various sections, motor police declare. They report that in a nearby county two men were arrested who were involved in the theft of chickens from 22 different farms. Nearly 1,500 chickens had been stolen, valued at $2,197. Of these, 180 chickens were recovered.

It has been pointed out that the special patrols are of great value in controlling the activities of thieves in districts beyond the reach of local police forces.

MORRISVILLE MAY HAVE POLICE RADIO

Matter To Be Considered Further by Borough Council Before Decision is Made

OTHER BORO' AFFAIRS

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 14.—Common Council considered the purchase of a police car and installation of a radio system which could be connected with Trenton. Because of the absence of some details, however, the matter was laid over until next week. The purchase and installation of automatic traffic signals for Bridge street and Pennsylvania avenue; North Pennsylvania avenue and Trenton avenue, and Bridge street and Delmor Avenue, was also deferred.

Announcement was made that it is believed the dog nuisance problem will soon be solved. Council appointed Thomas Taylor and Frank Cowell as dog catchers. It is reported they will begin work as soon as they are sworn in and the necessary papers signed.

Bids for the collection of garbage and ashes for a two-year period from February 1 were received and Dominic Kay, the present contractor, was low bidder. His bid was $5,250 for a two-year period. The only other bidder, John Gancarz, bid $7,200 for the same period. This figure includes collections in Chedester Manor. The contract was deferred until the borough solicitor can inspect the bids.

Requests for an increase of one-half mill in the fire tax for this year were received from Union and Capitol View Fire Companies. The firemen now receive one mill but they claim this does not produce enough revenue.

The budget and tax rate will be fixed at the next meeting. An ordinance providing for the elimination of fire hazards in the borough was passed on its title. This is known as a fire ordinance and was proposed by the fire department.

View Fire Company held in the firehouse on North Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville, the following officers were elected:

Mr. Yerkes was installed to that office in a ceremony conducted by State Overseer Isaac S. Gross, Plumsteadville, who was aided by others affiliated with Plumsteadville Grange. Mrs. Gross, the Misses Florence Feller, Dorothy Wolfinger and Catherine Gross were in the group, and other officers were also installed.

The officers of the grange are as follows: Master, George H. Yerkes; overseer, Blaine Patterson; lecturer, Mrs. Walker E. Jackson; steward, Jacob Hibbs; assistant steward, Henry C. At the close of the meeting the women's work committee served coffee and sandwiches.

The next meeting will take place in the Friends' school house, January 25th.

Two Brothers Confess Stripping Automobiles

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 14.—Pleading guilty to stripping five automobiles and robbing 25 different places over a period of a year, Thomas Gross, 19, and his brother, John, 18, of Point Pleasant, were committed to the Bucks County Prison last night by Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack, Doylestown, to await the next term of Bucks County Criminal Court.

The long series of breaking and enterings charged against the Gross brothers, to which they have confessed by making a sworn and signed statement, took place in Tinticum and Plumstead townships.

Some excellent work on the part of the members of the criminal investigation bureau of the Doylestown sub-station of Pennsylvania Motor Police, has resulted in a recent clean-up of much of the crime being committed in the two townships.

Private Felix R. Gowan, of the local sub-station, arrested the Gross brothers last Wednesday night in Upper Makefield township. Private Gowan found them riding around the country. The officer stopped the car and questioned them briefly before placing them under arrest.

Among the many places they have confessed to entering is the Point Pleasant store, a garage at the same place and the Point Pleasant quarry. Their "biggest haul" was made when they broke into six summer bungalows in one day in Tinticum township near Point Pleasant, stealing household goods of small value, in addition to radios, canned goods and other things.

Private Gowan estimated that the loot stolen by the Gross brothers is worth about $1,000. Very little of the stolen articles were sold, the investigation disclosed, but was used at the Gross home. They traveled around the country in John Gross' automobile, committing most of the crimes during the day.

Justice Hobensack held them under $2500 bail apiece.

YOUTH SET BAD EXAMPLE BY HIS OLDER BROTHERS

Frank Buser Arrested by State Police and Held for Criminal Court

ACCUSED OF ROBBERIES

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 14.—Frank Buser's brothers set a bad example for their younger brother who was arrested yesterday by Private Harry Christ, of the Doylestown sub-station of Pennsylvania Motor Police, on charges of burglary, breaking and entering, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Frank, who is 17, came to Bucks county from Reading last March to work on a farm two miles east of Kellers Church.

His three brothers, about two years ago, were arrested by Private Christ and other officers, for a series of 100 thefts in Berks county and at the time they were on 10-year parole from the Eastern State Penitentiary, to which place they were returned for another 20 years.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace W. Carlile Hobensack, Buser was committed to the Bucks County Prison in default of bail for the next term of criminal court.

Buser, according to Private Christ, who became acquainted with him while investigating thefts involving his brothers, has confessed to a series of thefts in the Kellers Church section.

Buser broke into the Mahlon Gulden general store at Kellers Church on January 10, entering through a front window. In the kitchen of the home, back of the store, he stole two shot guns.

On two occasions during the past two months, Buser admits breaking into the Summer home of Harry J. Hurley, near the Gulden store. The Hurleys live in Upper Darby. Buser says that he stole a revolver, a rifle and a shot-gun at the Hurley place.

Unlike many others who have been arrested before him, Buser did not have an automobile or a companion. He traveled alone on foot, at night, committing the various robberies.

The Summer home of the well-known writers, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Goetz, who are in Europe now, was also robbed by Buser. This place is located in Bedminster township, and on two occasions Buser entered the place, his loot there being a shot-gun and a rifle.

On Wednesday night of this week, Buser broke into the Goetz home for the third time, but this proved his downfall. Two sons of the caretaker of the Goetz place drove by and noticed a light in the house. They summoned their father, George Streapy, who lives nearby, and then surrounded the Goetz place. When Buser came out he was captured and State Motor Police were summoned from the Doylestown sub-station, Private Christ taking the case.

It was a strange coincidence that Private Christ recognized young Buser immediately as a brother to three others whom he had helped send to the Eastern Penitentiary for breaking parole.

All of the stolen guns were recovered by Private Christ. Several of them had been disposed of in Sellersville. The stolen guns were valued at about $200.

DESIRES OF NATIONS OF WORLD SPELL WORD "SUICIDE"

Brought Out in Current Events Talk by Richard H. McFeely

AT THE TRAVEL CLUB

George School Instructor Gives An Enlightening Talk to Women

The tragic word spelled out by the powerful nations of the world as they drew cards containing letters representing their greatest desire was the story with which Richard H. McFeely, of George School, Newtown, captured the imagination of his Travel Club audience yesterday afternoon.

"France drew an 'S' for Security; Germany a 'U' for Union; Italy an 'I' for Imperialism; Russia a 'C' for Communism or Collectivism; the United States an 'I' for Isolation; England a 'D' for Disorganization so the balance of power might be in her favor; and Japan an 'E' for Expansion. And when placed together on this imaginary table the letters spelled 'SUICIDE'."

This side-light on affairs in the world-at-large was presented at the outset of an address on current events in the home of the women's club on Cedar street. Then next were taken up some of the outstanding problems facing the United States at the present time. Culling various statements in President Roosevelt's recent address on "The State of the Union," Mr. McFeely considered numerous items, giving some attention to the $1,750,000,000 asked for relief with an additional $875,000,000 to maintain WPA rolls at the current wage. The sum for defense, a huge increase over that of last year's budget, was discussed

VOICE OF THE PAST

When the novel Three Weeks was published some 30 years ago, it created a sensation. It aroused condemnation by many persons and was banned in several communities as an excessively erotic performance in which vice was glorified. Incidentally it made a fortune for the author. Today the book is almost forgotten, the few who still read it having found the novel a dull thing, pallid and innocuous as compared with the literary strong meat fed to us by the Faulkners and Hemingways and Caldwell. We are reminded of Three Weeks, only because its author, Elinor Glyn, recently celebrated her 74th birthday and issued a characteristic pronouncement in observance of the event.

Elinor Glyn, quondam oracle of the temple of love, remains consistent with her earlier career in her latest statement to the world. But it is to be noted that years have tempered passion, and that the word love has been changed to affection. The greatest thing in life, she says, is affection. "You must give and have affection. And you must think and believe in goodness. Of course, money is a good thing, too. You should have enough to resist the temptation to do wrong to others. But affection comes first."

Was it not Elinor Glyn who put a new and exciting meaning into the hitherto cold and neuter pronoun. It? In the days when Elinor Glyn lorded it over the world of popular fiction and the silent movies, you had "It" or you did not, you were fireworks or a dud. The expression has gone with the flame of the flaming youth of another age. It has even gone from the consciousness of the writer who at 74 asserts that affection comes first.

STRANGE WORLD

Kangaroos climb trees, rats are three feet long. It is not Baron Munchausen speaking but a serious scientist, Richard Archbold, leader of the expedition of the American Museum of Natural History into the jungles of Dutch New Guinea. This little scientific item comes from a place called Hollandia, in the heart of a wilderness rarely entered by white men, a land of strange birds and animals and plants and aborigines who have developed an amazingly advanced system of agriculture.

The three-foot rat found by Mr. Archbold and his associates is a powerful animal, a mammal formidable enough to hold his own in dangerous combat. The kangaroos are friendly, tame creatures and they do their tree-climbing by a technique in imitation of the New Guinea natives.

The Archbold outfit has made many valuable contributions to assist scientists in knowledge of the world about us. The remarkable finds it has made, the discovery of many new species, are repayment for the hardships and discomforts encountered by these intrepid men who are impelled by the urge to know. We have enjoyed reading every word of the Archbold report; it is a confirmation of what Shakespeare said in Hamlet: "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

Civilized men become so ethical they are above committing any crime except murder.

Another thing this country has too much of for its own good is human nature.

Snow, Continuing Through Night, Covers Countryside

Snow which commenced falling yesterday afternoon and continued through the night and today, covered the countryside with a deep blanket of white.

In spite of the thick layer of snow, traffic was not hampered to any great degree, this being due to the fact the snow was of such character that automobiles were able to move through it at an even rate even in the rural areas where long lanes and unshoveled highways are sometimes a factor.

Plows had the major thoroughfares free from the snow at an early hour, but most motorists, keeping on the cautious side, placed their chains on.

Employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad were summoned to keep switches

ENTIRELY DIFFERENT SHOW EVERY FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

New Orchestra — New Talent — New Atmosphere

GRUBER'S HOF-BRAU
BRISTOL PIKE, BRISTOL, PA.

Local theatregoers are this week getting an opportunity to see one of the most timely pictures of the current season—"Cipher Bureau," the Fine Arts' production which deals with the work of the American counter-espionage service in meeting the activities of foreign spy groups, and which heads the bill at the Bristol Theatre.

Leon Ames, Joan Woodbury, Charlotte Wynters and Donald Dillaway head an excellent cast for this picture, and the fact that its story deals with activities which are a matter of current news makes it an unusually timely offering.

Grand romance and madcap humor go hand-in-hand in the new Paramount comedy, "Say It In French," Sunday, at the Bristol Theatre. The ideal starring team of Ray Milland and Olympe Bradna, a clever and sophisticated story and smooth direction add up to one of the most satisfying and entertaining pictures of the season.

The gay plot concerns the escapades of a handsome American playboy and his vivacious French bride, both of whom are forced to keep their marriage a secret under the most trying circumstances in order to save the young man's father from bankruptcy.

Opening at the Grand Theatre, "Up The River," 20th Century-Fox comedy, features Preston Foster, Tony Martin, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville, Arthur Treacher and Bill Robinson. Said to be a hilarious combination of music, broad comedy situations and prison football, the film is a happy departure from the cycle of grim prison melodramas with their lofty but solemn messages of social reform and is, in the opinion of Director Alfred Werker, a refreshing exploration into a novel background for comedy.

Most of the action takes place within the walls of a mythical state penitentiary, where the happy inmates boast of a radio in every cell and gates that are practically revolving doors. Tony Martin and Phyllis Brooks handle the romantic interest, and the cast also includes Alan Dinehart, Eddie Collins, Jane Darwell and Sidney Toler. Sol M. Wurtzel was executive producer.

The high, wide and handsome adventures of a streamlined social registerite who causes considerable eyebrow-lifting in Washington's upper crust when she "middle-aisles it" with a roving cowboy from the western plains is both humorously and dramatically unfolded in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Cowboy and the Lady," co-starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon, which is scheduled for its initial showing at the Grand Theatre on Sunday.

Supporting Cooper as the bronzed he-man from the sage-dotted hills and Miss Oberon as the madcap modern who takes her romance neat, is a hand-picked cast headed by Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan, Mabel Todd and Fuzzy Knight. Miss Kelly, who is now trim and svelte-like as a result of her recent diet cure, is romantically paired with Walter Brennan, while Mabel Todd, blonde comedienne, is the "heart-interest" of Fuzzy Knight. In fact, it is these two high-st-to-goodness romances which inspired the whirlwind courtship of Cooper and Miss Oberon and cause a sizeable dither in the scandal columns.

BRISTOL HIGH WINS 3RD STRAIGHT TILT; DOWNS GLOUCESTER

Visitors Were Late in Arriving
For the Contest, Due To Storm

FINAL SCORE IS 34 TO 22

Bristol Passers Played Excellent Game and Had the Visitors Baffled

The high scoring machine of Bristol High rolled on last night as they met and defeated the invading Gloucester Catholic High School quintet on the local wooden ways by the score of 34-22.

While the victory marked the third straight without a defeat for the Cardinals, it also was labeled as setback No. 3 for the Jerseyites who have yet to win one in the current season.

For a while the sparse crowd that was on hand for the preliminary tilt at the starting time of 7:30 though they had come to the local court in vain, as they waited around anxiously peering at the doors for the guests to "drop in on them" for an evening's visit. In the meantime, coach Steve Juenger sent out a hurried call to the Mill Street Boys Club to fill the bill in case the scheduled club could not get here. So the Mill Streeters rushed up to the school and were ready to go at about 8:15.

In order to keep the gathering, which was increasing gradually, amused, coach Juenger threw in an extra added attraction by putting on the finals in the singles and doubles ping pong tournament at the school. During the course of the final match of the doubles play, the Dixon Boys Club, who were scheduled to meet the local Junior Varsity club in the opening game of the evening's slate, put in their appearance at approximately 8:30.

At 9 o'clock the Gloucester Catholic outfit arrived during the intermission of the J. V. contest. And so the special detachment called out from Mill street, was given the option of going home or staying since they were not needed. However, the downtowners chose to remain for the rest of the evening's entertainment.

Displaying a brilliant passing attack that moved rapidly in the rear part of front court, until someone worked clear under the basket, the Cardinals set a pace that had the invaders running around in circles trying to gain possession of the ball. Then in a flash, a pass was tossed to a red-shirted player who worked himself loose near the net, and the general result was another two pointer for Bristol.

Bristol's passers exhibited their best form in the opening period and again in the third canto in which they rolled up 23 of their 34 points. And although the invaders showed signs of spurring now and then, they were never really in the game after the first period, in which Bristol amassed an 11-4 lead. For just when the Catholic boys seemed to be on their way with a scoring rampage, the Cardinals opened their offensive attack to keep pace with the Jerseyites, who never really could get started against Bristol's superb defense.

Bill Gallagher cut under the net to sink a double decker for the initial points of the game after a minute and 40 seconds of play, giving Bristol a 2-0 advantage. Jack Page sunk a foul shot, then Danny DiMidio looped one through from the left after which Page dropped in a long set shot to reduce Bristol's lead to 4-3. But that was the closest coach Ray Mullen's boys ever came to Bristol's lead.

After that Bill Gallagher dropped a pair of field goals into the net, and Wilbur Van Lenten followed with another and a foul toss to make it 11-4. Both teams tallied six counters in the second period, and thus Bristol held its seven point margin at intermission, 17-10.

Bill Gallagher and Steve Florito accounted for ten of the Cards' 12 points in the third period when each hit the cords for a pair of twin-counters and a foul throw. Wilbur Van Lenten added the other two points on an under-the-basket shot. Florito and Gus Carnvale divided the last period scoring with 3 and 2 points respectively, while for the invaders, Jack Page sunk a shot from the foul circle and Marvin Good unloaded a pair of long set shots for the other four points for Gloucester.

Bill Gallagher paced the home club to victory with a quintet of field goals and a trio of free throws for 13 tallies; while Marv Good, with a quartet of double deckers and a pair of single counters, led the visitors with 10 points.

HIGH SCHOOL J. V. FIVE LOSES TO DIXON CLUB

Four points in the opening session, and five more in the last period were all that Bristol High's J. V. quintet could garner against the fast Dixon Boys Club of South Philadelphia, who scored an easy triumph over the Cardinal five in the preliminary tilt at the local floor last night.

The Philadelphia club was coached by Art Colly, team mate of coach Steve Juenger on the Temple University basketball team a few years ago. Incidentally, coach Juenger's younger brother, Johnny, played a good defensive game for the Dixon club in this tilt.

CORN WINS SINGLES IN PING-PONG TITLE

Displaying a smashing backhand stroke and a fine service delivery, Herm Corn bested Harry Erny, both of the Senior Class, in the first intramural men's single ping-pong tournament conducted under the direction of coach Steve Juenger on the high school court last night before the start of the basketball games for the evening.

Corn conquered Erny in straight sets by scores of 21-11 and 21-17. As indicated by the scores, Corn was given little competition in the first match, but was forced to go the limit to outlast his opponent in the deciding round as Erny displayed a much better game.

Also the team of John Sweitzer and George Salapka scored a 2-1 win over the team of Harry Erny and Herm Corn in the first intramural doubles ping-pong tournament. All three matches were evenly fought with neither team being able to pile up a huge lead at any time upon their opponents. And in such case when one team did gain a little too much advantage, the other duct was quick to catch up.

In every set, the lead changed hands often before the winners finally conquered their opponents. Salapka and Sweitzer took the first match, 21-15, which was the most decisive (if you could call it that) round of the set. However, Corn and Erny came back to win the second match, 21-16, and thereby tie in games at one apiece.

And when the same team started out like a house afire in the concluding match to take an 8-1 lead, it looked like they were "in" for the first title honors. But, at this point, Sweitzer and Salapka rallied to not only catch up, but to go ahead, 10-8, by winning nine consecutive points.

After that it was a see-saw rest of the way to the wire with the ultimate team coming through with another late rally to overcome a two-point lead and at the same time stave off the losers' late rush at the finish to win the match and sets, two-to-one, for the doubles title.

Desires of Nations of World Spell Word "Suicide"

and say "Try to put something across." I hope they will accept the challenge and not merely give destructive criticism.

The tasks which face Congress were mentioned, main ones considered including: Relief for 10 to 12 million people; defense problem, and what the calling home of Wilson from Germany and Phillips from Italy might mean, these and others in like positions stating that Chamberlain's policy of appeasement is not working out. As a side-light at this point, the speaker mentioned that "People like Hitler and Mussolini need to keep the minds of the people off their own problems. After the question of the Jews has passed over the dictators will have something else for the people to think about besides their own condition. The ambassadors look to war in the Spring unless the United States takes steps against the dictators and arms to the teeth. The President and the diplomats are of the opinion that if such arming occurs, dictators will take warning." The reorganization bill, social security and the recommendations suggestions in connection with such, the question of neutrality were other questions mentioned which face Congress. In line with the neutrality problem, the question being "if to renew, revise or cut it out entirely." Mr. McFeely added: "The next war will be a fight to make the world safe for Democracy. That has a familiar ring, hasn't it? And it would be the United States, France and England against the other countries."

The activities of the American Friends Service Committee in planning to feed the thousands of destitute Jews in Germany was mentioned. "The Germans are willing to have the Friends come in to do this work," he added.

The Travel Club members were asked to watch carefully during the next year the activities of the Temporary National Economic Committee, which committee will try to find out what is wrong with our economic structure, and see what changes can be made.

A few minutes' consideration was given to the outcome of the Munich conference, with the remark: "Germany emerged from that the strongest power in Europe. She is now in the position the Kaiser was just before the World War. And with Germany the strongest power in Europe 20 years after the war, the question is raised, 'Who won the war?' If you want to know what a war is fought for, don't listen to what is said—see what the victors take," was a pertinent comment.

Turning to the great arms race the statement was made by the instructor from Newtown: "No country in the arms race is balancing its budget. . . . And if the goods manufactured are not used, the people find themselves working in an unproductive sort of thing. The governments find they must either use the goods to keep the people satisfied, or demolish to lower costs."

The false "evidence" given by Germany that Nazism is working, was derided, and the strong bid being made by that country and Italy for South American trade was another phase of the world problem brought to the fore. A number of questions were asked by the audience and discussed in general.

This is Mr. McFeely's second appearance before the Travel Club this season.

Brief business followed, Mrs. Earl Tomb in charge, with Mrs. Richard T. Myers in charge of the records of the session. Among announcements were those of invitations from Southampton club to attend a meeting on the evening of January 16th; one from Yardley Civic Club to attend the program it will sponsor in Jenkintown on January 25th at two p. m.; the Art Alliance exhibition now presented in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Walter Pitzonka, conservation and garden chairman, told of the commercial firm dubbed the "Blot of the Month" for January, as a result of its allegedly blotting the landscape at various points with unsightly billboards, or by failure to keep premises looking neat. Action was urged on the part of the club-women to have such condition remedied. Mrs. Pitzonka and the club president have been named as representatives from the local club to the Bucks County Association.

Mrs. Emil Metzger presented the cause of the Children's Seashore House Building Plan.

Nanny and Her Fawn Were Victims Of Cruel 'Spotlight' Killers in Pike County

Pet in That Section for Many Years and
Her Fawn Mowed Down by Outlaw
Gunners After Season Was Closed

By EDWIN B. V. LARSON

NANNY IS DEAD. A tame doe, known to tourists from the Atlantic Seaboard to the Pacific Coast, Nanny became the victim of some butchers hunter who crept in during the dead of night and shot her and her fawn.

The killing is one of many incidents that have aroused true sportsmen in eastern Pennsylvania against the swelling wave of lawlessness among hunters. It was as illegal as it was cruel, for it was done after the hunting season had officially closed. In all likelihood Nanny and her fawn were victims of "jacklighting."

Nanny lived in the woodlands of Pike County near Dingman's Ferry. For ten years, ever since she was a fawn, she had been tame as a dog. She would take food from your hand or mouth with a boldness unnatural to her kind.

"I feel like I've lost a friend," said Noel Adams, who for years has fed Nanny and her herd. "I'd like to get my hands on whoever shot her."

Tamed by Woman

MRS. BERTHA RAITT Adams' mother-in-law, first tamed Nanny. She was proprietor of a country store at the site of the old Edgemore post office. The surrounding country is thickly populated with deer.

Mrs. Raitt, who frequently saw deer in the woods and fields near her isolated home, formed the habit of throwing potato and apple peelings at the edge of the woods in winter, when food is scarce, and many deer starve to death. The graceful animals devoured eagerly whatever she left them.

Gradually, she began leaving the food closer to the house, and in time had the deer coming to her for food. It was not very long before they would take food from her hand, and would come to her call.

Nanny's Mother Slain

IT WAS about this time that the State declared an open season on does, and many were killed by hunters. Among them was Nanny's mother, a magnificent doe that crested at 200 pounds; few bucks of that size are found today. Nanny, her fawn, continued coming to the little store for food.

Nanny became boss of the herd that gathered to be fed. Almost every year she brought back two fawns, and her brood and that of Longnose, another old doe, comprise the herd that was tamed. Seven or eight of Nanny's fawns are still living nearby.

Before hunting season there were 27 deer in the herd; only 17 survived. Hunters got the rest. Most of the herd have names; they are as different as human beings when you get to know them. For instance, there are Scrappy, Mouse, and Dummy, all of whom live up to their names. Bucky is a young buck, who probably will leave the herd soon to join a herd of bucks. Pugy was killed two weeks before hunting season opened; another is called Biscuit.

Answered Call

BUT favorite, as well as boss, of the flock, was Nanny. A hoot and a call of "Nanny, Nanny-n-n-y Girl" brought her bounding in from the woods.

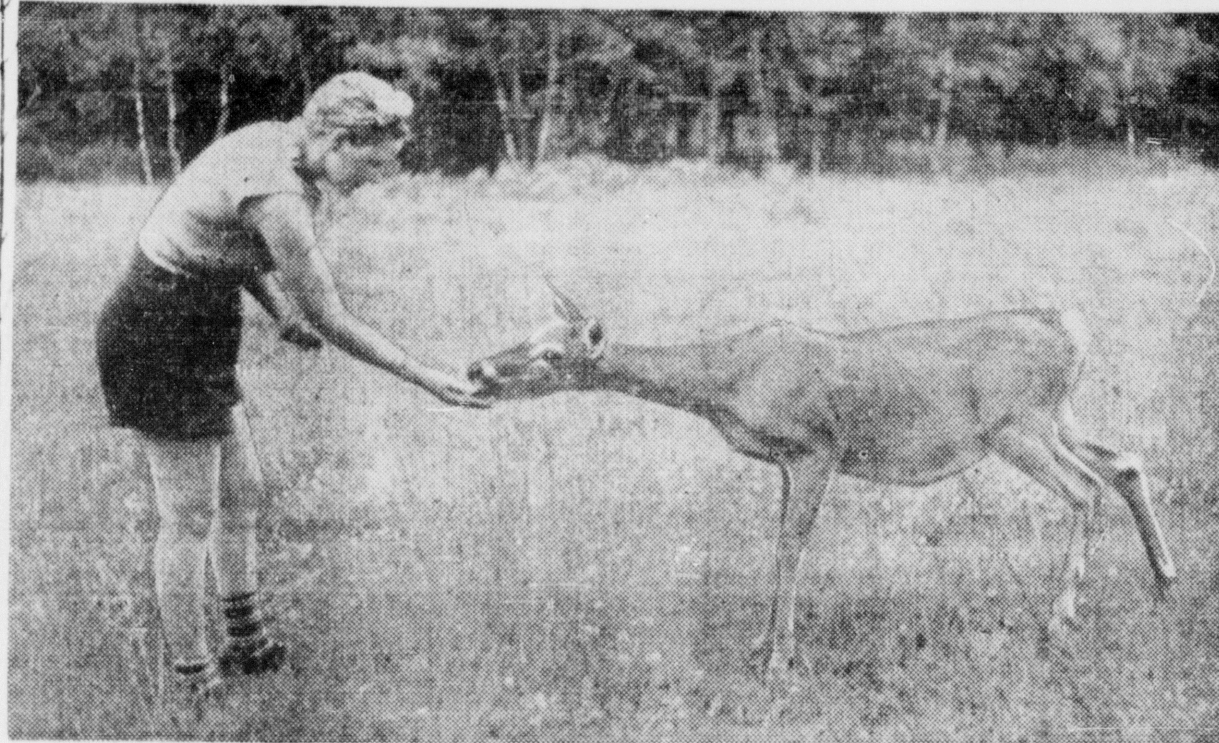

She was the favorite of the tourists who stopped to watch the tame deer. They liked to feed her from their hands. More adventurous souls would hold pieces of bread in their mouths; Nanny, rising on her hind legs, took it gently.

Nanny ate almost anything, and frequently was fed so much bread and candy and fruit by Summer visitors that she could hold no more, and ambled back into the cool woods to sleep it off. One of her best tricks was to eat a lollipop off the stick.

Tame Buck Saved

HEY! Get out of the way so we can shoot him," they yelled at Adams. Adams did not get out of the way. The hunters left, grumbling, when Adams went for his gun, threatening to shoot anyone who fired a shot at the buck.

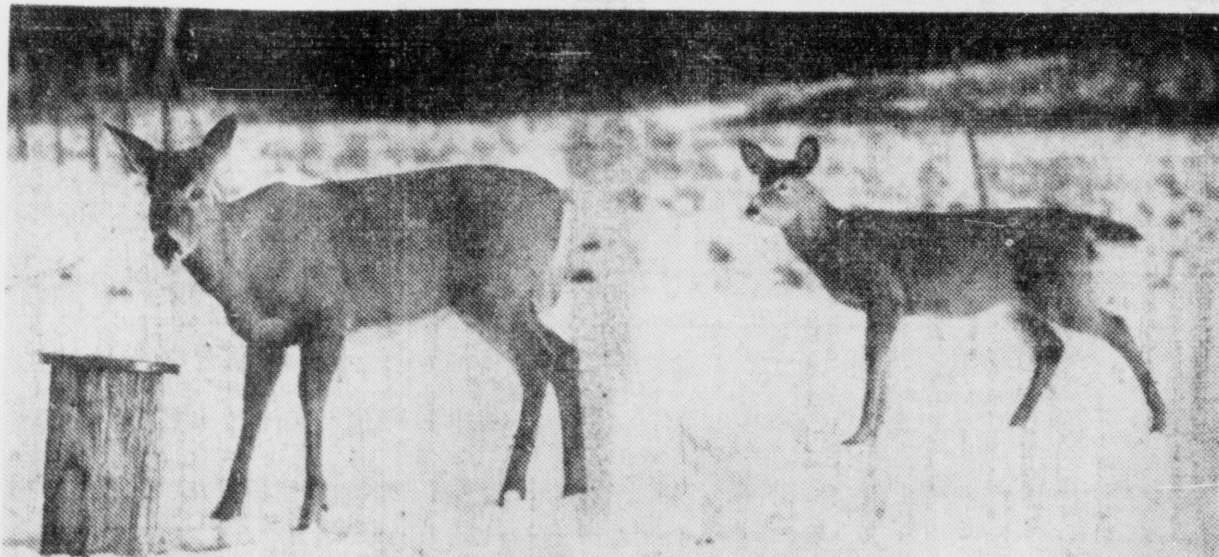

The open season on does took a large toll, especially among young deer. Many automobiles were seen going through this city, bearing tied Top—Nanny taking a tasty morsel from the hand of a comely visitor.

Center—Standing up to take a piece of bread; she would take food from your mouth this way.

Below—Some of Nanny's herd; the grain set out for them has helped them survive rigorous Winters.

to their fenders deer scarcely as large as dogs.

"What did you shoot that little thing for?" one hunter was asked. He was indignant; then smiled sheepishly and admitted: "I guess it is sort of small."

Thousands Shot Illegally

IT IS estimated that thousands of deer were shot illegally in Pennsylvania during the last season. The largest part of this number probably were does shot out of season.

Many bucks were shot too. Residents of the deer woods report finding many a fine buck, with as many as six and eight points, shot and let lay.

said, "that you could see his horns a hundred yards away—unless you were blind. He was just shot and let lay there."

Another told of finding an old black bear, apparently "mistaken" by some hunter for a doe, or shot for the gross joy of killing.

One of the illegal practices most common is "jacklighting." The hunter uses the lights of his automobile or a flashlight to blind the deer. Fascinated by the light, the animal makes an easy target.

Lots of Jacklighting

PLENTY of jacklighting was done this season, according to reports. A tame deer was shot in the road directly in front of a house near the Adams. One hunter, a non-resident hunter from New Jersey, was caught jacklighting in the vicinity.

But more get away with it than get caught. They get away with shooting deer from automobiles, too. A deer in the road or near the edge of it makes a tempting target for some of these rapacious hunters. Shot from the machine, it is dragged into the car and hurried away within a few minutes.

Such was the fate of Nanny. The person who shot Nanny must be known by some one. As Nanny was 12 years old, the meat was tough and not edible. Any information sent to The Easton Express relative to the guilty party will be gratefully received.
